More Money For Madison County Farmers

It is the farmer who goes ahead and does things—who thinks clearly and decides wisely, who makes the real red-letter winning nowadays. And there is no better evidence of the fact that the farmers of this county are men who think, take hold and accomplish than the fact that they are taking and unusual interest in the fence question at this time. It is a big question and a vital one. A fence may be either a source of loss, annoyance, disappointment, or it may be a source of profit, protection and permanent peace of mind.

Any farmer who goes seriously into the matter will speedily find that for real reasons the American Fence stands incomparably above every other fence material offered. In service, protection to stock, weather-resisting power and long life will prove a real money-maker and money-saver to any farmer, large or small. Many weights and styles of American fence are shown at

Our Great Progress in Fifty Years.

While in 1860 the United States held a low place among the countries in most of the great interests, it has a long lead among the nations in nearly all of them today. Although it has only 5 per cent of the world's population, it produces 20 per cent of the world's wheat, 22 per cent of its gold, 50 per cent of its silver, 33 per cent of its manufactures in the aggregate, 37 per cent of its pig iron, 40 per cent of its coal, 43 per cent of its steel, 55 per cent of its copper, 60 per cent of its petroleum, 70 per cent of its cotton and 80 per cent of its corn, while it has 40 per cent of the world's railway mileage. How has this tremendous expansion in the country's activities in the past half century helped the average wage-earner, who constitutes a majority of the people? Here is one way and a very effective way, of answering this query. While the number of depositors in the savings banks of the country was 692,000 in 1860, it was 9,142,000 in 1910, and the amount of their deposits was $140,000,000 in the former year and $4,170,000,000 in the latter.—Leslie's.

It has long been a Democratic custom in Madison county to give a second term to those officials who perform their duty well during the first term of office, and you can make no mistake by deciding to cast your vote for R. B. Terrill for re-election to the office of County Court Clerk. His record is open for the closest inspection.

"My Boy."

By request of one of our subscribers, we are publishing Edward Leigh Pell, Jr., "My Boy." Every mother and father should read and heed it.

The world has no room for a boy. He is too rough for its taste and in his awkwardness he often rubs it the wrong way. We treasure our men, our women and our girls, but we only tolerate our boys—tolerate them with the hope that they will soon cease to be boys.

But a boy is like a coconut, brought to us fresh from the tree, enveloped in its great shaggy covering. The goodness is all within, and you must crack its very heart to find it. You never know what is in the heart of a boy until it has been cracked by some hard vicissitude of life.

When I was taken sick my boy squared his frail shoulders to bear his father's burdens. Day after day he went to the office and tried to take his father's place, and when they gave him business worries to bring home he would often hide them in his pocket and meet his father with a smiling face.

His father should not be worried. One day he came home in pain and laid down his work. When they were about to take him away to the hospital I went to him and said: "My boy, you know how I have always loved you with all my heart."

"And I have loved you with all my heart, too," he replied; "but papa don't worry; I don't mind the operation, I am only afraid you will worry and it will make you worse. Don't worry, papa."

And day after day there came a message of love from the hospital with its admonition not to worry.

When at last he began to realize that he must go, he sent for me.

"God has been good to us," I said to him, "and we can trust him."

"I am trusting him," he said.

"We've had a lot of good times together, my boy, and we are going to have many more; for I am coming to you and we shall live together forever."

And he gave my hand a squeeze that broke my heart.

At the last moment, while talking to his mother, his brilliant mind as clear as it had ever been in all his life, he looked up suddenly and exclaimed:

"They are coming!"

"Who are coming, my child?" asked his mother.
Oh, the angels, the angels! I see them!"
"And won't you come for me, my boy?" asked his mother.
"Yes, yes; good-bye."

KILLS GERMS

Parisian Sage is Also the Most Delightful Hair
Dressing on Earth.

PARISIAN SAGE penetrates into the roots of the hair, destroys the dandruff germs, puts new life into the hair and stops it from falling out.

Perry's Drug Store guarantees it for Dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp and a large bottle costs but 50 cents.

"In August I began losing my hair in spots from the size of a quarter to the size of a silver dollar. I was seriously alarmed—after consulting physicians and trying many things, I decided to try PARISIAN SAGE, and I find my hair in much better condition, new hair growing in the bald spots." Mrs. Blanche S. Marshall, 407 Hinton Ave., Charlottesville, Va. Ladies, give delightful PARISIAN SAGE a trial, and see how quickly your hair will grow lovely and fascinating.

Good Sense From Woodson.

The present campaign in Kentucky must not be permitted to degenerate into one of personal abuse. There is no occasion for it. There is nothing at stake warranting acrimonious language between Democrats. Every man in the party, for the party's welfare and in the interest of good citizenship, should immediately lend his influence toward stopping a personal controversy that is without justification and deplorable from every standpoint.—Owensboro Messenger.

Silly Denominationalism.

A contributor to the Florida Christian Advocate advises his readers to draw denominational lines in selecting their candidates, i. e., if a man is a member of your church, other things being equal, vote for him. We do not think this advice of the reverend gentleman is wholesome. Politics and religion are bad things to mix together. A man's moral character certainly should be considered in selecting a public servant, but the church he attends, or the form of worship he employs, is a matter concerning which none has a right to dictate or interfere with, but which rests solely with his own conscience. That is the spirit of our free institutions.—Lakeland Evening Telegram.

To a man up a tree it looks as if the Democrats of Kentucky would be guilty of base ingratitude to fail to re-elect Rufus Vansant chairman of the State Central Committee. There is a faction in the party waging a merry war against Governor McCreary and the administration generally, and it is after Mr. Vansant's scalp. His splendid work during the late campaign when the Democrats were reduced to power by an overwhelming majority surely deserves our endorsement. He practically gave up his private business and spent months planning the defeat of the Republicans. His tact, his intelligence, his tact and skill, and his money were unselfishly and unreservedly devoted to the party's advancement. He ought to be chosen chairman without opposition. —Hollinsville News Era.

The CLIMAX cannot believe the Democratic party of Kentucky will be guilty of ungratefulness to Rufus Vansant, chairman of the State Central Committee, and disregard the valiant services rendered the party during the campaign last fall, by selecting another man to take charge of the affairs so successfully conducted by this gentleman. Mr. Vansant is due great credit for the splendid victory achieved by the State Democracy last November, and to select another to preside in the capacity of State Chairman would be a rebuke to one of the most loyal and efficient party workers in Kentucky. Democrats of Madison, remember next Saturday when you assemble in convention on the splendid work of Mr. Vansant, the overwhelming majority of last fall, and we are sure you will conclude, as The Climax has done, that he certainly deserves our unanimous endorsement.

The LOUISVILLE TIMES of Monday evening contains a very complimentary notice of our fellow townsman and ex-Representative L. B. Herrington, written by the editor of "What's Doing Among Politicians." The article comments on the splendid showing made by Mr. Herrington in his race for delegate from the Eighth Congressional District to the national convention at Baltimore. The editor of this popular column in The Times is laboring under the impression that Mr. Herrington is an announced candidate for this honor, which is an erroneous idea and unauthorized, as the many duties demanding Mr. Herrington's attention preclude the possibility of his entering into a contest of a political nature.

CHURCH NOTES.

Brother French filled his appointment Sunday at the Republican church.

Pleasant church has called Bro. McChandon for their pastor. He will move with his family to Richmond to reside.

Rev. Mr. Summers, of Georgetown, will preach at the Baptist church, Kingston, Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. W. E. Arnold, of Danville, the presiding elder of the Danville District, will preach at the Methodist church next Saturday at 2:30 p. m. and on Sunday at 10 o'clock.

The Paragraph in the discipline of the Methodist Episcopal church forbidding dancing, card playing, theater going and some other worldly amusements was retained in the discipline by action of the General Conference. Quite a number of petitions had been presented asking that it be left out.

While the new Christian church is being erected the congregation will hold all services regularly in the McKee skating rink. The carpets, pews, pulpit and other things will be retained, and the rink makes an excellent place for meetings of all kinds. The officers of the church were fortunate in securing such commodious and convenient quarters.

Dr. Frank M. Thomas, presiding elder of the Louisville district, was the fraternal delegate of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Minneapolis. The daily Christian Advocate, speaking of his address said, "So eloquent, so beautiful, so patriotic, that the great audience was carried off its seats."

Sunday, May 19, is observed as "Children's Day" in the Methodist churches generally. A regular program is provided and a collection taken, which is applied in the interest of the Sunday School work, the principal part going to the children's fund.

The First Church of Christ (Scientist) held services regularly every Sunday in their apartments, 136 Second street, Sunday School at 10 o'clock a. m. Lessons at 11 a. m. Wednesday evening testimonial services at 7:30 p. m. Free reading room 136 Second street, open from 2 to 4 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The public is cordially invited to any and all religious services.

Hon. William J. Bryan was the feature of the day Sunday in Louisville as a speaker before the Northern Presbyterian Assembly, speaking five times during the day upon subjects of great importance.

"The Making of a Man," "The Larger Life" and "Brotherly Love." Mr. Bryan has been elected to the great Winston Assembly, and it was particularly in the interest of this situation that he was a visitor to the General Assembly. One sentence from one of his addresses is the "Key note" to Mr. Bryan's life and utterances, and it is worthy of being seriously considered by the Agitators in both parties just now: I regard religion infinitely superior in its relation to human life and happiness than government.

NORMAL NOTES.

Our popular coach, Prof. Wilson, has been confined to his room for several days with an injury to his leg, the result of an accident on the diamond. Blood poisoning was feared, but timely treatment has resulted in a complete recovery.

A pleasant reception was given in Sullivan Hall on Thursday last week, when 350 to 400 guests were entertained by the bride and groom, Prof. and Mrs. Koch. The students of the Model and Normal Schools were the guests of honor.

The students of the Model and Normal Schools were the guests of honor. Those receiving were Mrs. Crabbe, Prof. and Mrs. Koch, Mrs. Roark, Prof. and Mrs. Johnson and Miss Patrick. The reception hour was set apart for the entertainment of the children in the grades. The lots were a pretty sight as they filed in from the hall with a dignity worthy of guests more practiced in social formalities.

The students arrived late and paid their respects and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Koch, whom they had all learned to know and love as their teachers, and to the bride and groom.

The Meeting of the Alumnae of Madison Institute.

School bells rang again for the alumnae of Madison Institute on Thursday.

The association, gathered at the Masonic Temple for their biennial meeting, strengthened this year by the six young graduates from "the hill."

The principal of the school, Prof. E. C. McElroy, and Mrs. Cassidy, were present as guests of the association. The entertainment this year took the form of an elaborate reception and luncheon with covers laid for sixty. The color scheme was beautifully carried out in pink and white and the large hall never looked more festive and beautiful. The tables were presided over by Miss Lela Million, as Toastmistress, and the sparkling wit and apt allusions and fitting pleasantness of all hearts and the association, at the close of the meeting, was willing to vote her position permanently.

Among the out-of-town members present were Mrs. Monroe Lear, of Paris, a member of the class of 1890, and Mrs. S. L. Bosley, of Danville, who graduated the same year. Mrs. A. R. R. Burnam, of Madison, was also present, and Mrs. E. C. McElroy, who was a member of the class of '88. Mrs. Bosley responded to the toast, "Days," with an original poem, which was greatly enjoyed. "Sense and Sensibility," was the toast assigned to Mrs. W. H. Douglas, the keynote of which was "By my truth, we that have good wits have much to answer for."

A solo, "Annie Laurie," was charmingly given by Miss Anna DeJarnett. The next on the program was a toast, "The Rivals—The Hill, The High and The Low," given by Mrs. Bessie Turley with much wit and humor. The toast, "Our Babies," was ably given by Mrs. William May. The voices of all those assembled joined in the stirring music of "Old Kentucky Home," the words being an appropriate paraphrase in favor of Madison Institute, the dear old "Hill" alma mater. One of the happy hits of the day was the toast, "Great Expectations," by Miss Anna DeJarnett. She delivered a bubble for each member of the class, 1912, prophetic of their hopes and resolves for the future. A solo, "Then Tell," was contributed by Mrs. Elmer Tate, whose sweet liquid voice was well suited to the old ballad and waked many a slumbering memory.

The evening was a sparkling one, and was soothed by the association the next morning at the breakfast table. Mrs. Burnam belongs to the alumnae, therefore the cup is hers. The whole table then joined in a rousing chorus, singing, "Auld Lang Syne."

All hearts were young again. All school girls again listening to the bells. What a gush of euphony volitionally how it swells. How it dwells. How it tells. Of the rapture that empowers. To the swinging and the ringing. Of

The Imperial Double Disc Harrow

The forward sections cut the ground and throw it outward. The rear sections work it again and throw it back to its original position. The ground is leveled and pulverized and left in perfect condition for seeding. Once over the field with an Imperial Double Disc does as much work as twice over with a Single Disc and does it more thoroughly. The time and expense of discing is reduced one-half. An ordinary Disc Harrow of six or seven foot cut is generally used with three horses. An Imperial Double Disc of the same width of cut requires only four. The saving of horse power is accomplished: First, by the form of the machine. The double action of the two harrows, one attached to and immediately following the other, requires much less than the power of two separate harrows. Second, by the shape of the discs. The scalloped blades, though better pulverizers than solid blades, have less bearing service against the surface they move and consequently have less draft.

WHEN SPAIN GAVE UP CUBA

Drama That Began With Columbus Ended In Sorrow After the American War.

Arriving in Havana on the afternoon of December 31, 1898, the day before Spain surrendered the island, I presented to Major General Ludlow a letter of introduction from the son of one of his close friends, and asked for a pass which would enable Mr. Taylor and myself to see the next day's ceremonies at the palace. The pass was promptly forthcoming.

It was five minutes to twelve next day. At that instant rose the solemn strains of the Spanish anthem. As it ceased there was a moment's silence. Then up through the casements came the "Star Spangled Banner," and the procession, which had formed before, wound its way through the great portal and up into the tower where we were. Major General Brooke and the officers under his command, their dress uniforms and yellow sashes a bright note of color, entered first; then came the starry Cuban leaders, their uniforms less splendid, but their dignity beyond question; and last of all, General Castellanos and his staff. These came the starry Cuban leaders, their uniforms less splendid, but their dignity beyond question; and last of all, General Castellanos and his staff.

"I have been in many battles," he faltered, "many trying situations, but never in a position like this." Then, as we watched, the little handful of Spanish troops, headed only by rifle and drum, set their faces toward Spain. The drama which began with Columbus was finished—John Adams Thayer, "Out of the Rut."

SOLID MATTER A FICTION?

Scientists Now Declare That What Seems So Really Only Motion.

Science is knocking the materialists end for end, as the boys say. It is absolutely proven that there is no such thing as solid, substantive matter. It is only motion. This stone, this table, this hammer is only motion. Some new-fangled idiot has said, "Well, it is known that matter is composed of atoms. For a long time the atom was thought to be the final analysis of matter."

But such is not the case. A few years ago radium was discovered, and that has broken the atom into small bits, 2,000 times smaller than the hydrogen atom, the smallest of all. These particles of the atom are called electrons, and now it has been found that these electrons are mere points of electrical energy. These electrons, says a magazine article, "are entirely free from anything that can properly be called matter."

Trillions and trillions of these electrons make up this piece of iron, and they are always in motion. Billions about at the rate of 50,000 miles a second. Now you know there is a lie out—how can a man calculate the speed of an invisible motion inside of an invisible atom? Oh, you say, "What world is, or how powerful human genius is, or how small a space you occupy in the world—Ohio State Journal."

STOMACH TROUBLES

Cured By Vinol—Here is Proof Seymour, Ind.—"I was troubled with a chronic stomach trouble, and five weeks ago it got so bad I had to give up work. I had tried various medicines without relief, and was finally induced to try Vinol. After taking the first bottle I was greatly benefited. Now on the third bottle and ready to resume work. Am rapidly gaining in weight and strength." Edw. Nieman.

It is the curative medicinal element of these pills, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion and at the same time it builds up the tired, overworked and run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

ALDRICH IN THE OLD DAYS

How the Author Appeared When He Had Just Become Editor of Atlantic Monthly.

I can see him now, sitting at the round table at Oscar's, holding a briar pipe that was often between his fingers than in his mouth, and swinging it in graphic phrases as he talked to us. He used it like a painter's brush or pencil.

He was dressed in a quiet suit of tweeds, the shirley of which was relieved by a flowing crimson scarf fastened at the neck by an antique ring. He was partial to crimson in those days, and it became his complexion and the light curls apostrophized by Thayer-Taylor. We parted late and in a merry mood, the young fellows among us glorying in the new friend who was so witty, so suave, and so attentive to our ambitions and aspirations.

Moreover, Aldrich had just succeeded to the editorship of the Atlantic Monthly, and hopes arose of possible advantages lying for young authors in that direction. He had just succeeded to the editorship of the Atlantic Monthly, and hopes arose of possible advantages lying for young authors in that direction.

"I'll have an elegy ready for him before breakfast, and try to get ahead of Edgar," said Frank Saltus, referring to Edgar Fawcett, as the lights went out on the eleventh floor, and on the following morning he came to me, dissembling an air of despondency. "It's no use. Edgar's beaten us all. He shipped a car load to the Atlantic by the fast freight before daylight—as per invoice, sonnets, ten tales; triplets, ballads and rondeaus, three tales; novels and short stories, twenty tons in fifteen cartons."—Bookman.

MAPS OF THEIR HOME STATES

Exiles Keep Them Hanging in Their Offices Because They Get Very Homesick.

To that general information bureau, the Atlantic Monthly, the man who wished to see a large map of Wisconsin.

"Where can I find one?" he said. "There is a Wisconsin map in the library on the eleventh floor," said the starter. "He'll be likely to have one."

Up to the eleventh floor went the seeker for a map. He found one there. "How does it happen," he said to the Wisconsin exile, "that all you men from other states keep a life-size map of your native state hanging up in your offices for a year or two after migrating to New York? Is it because you are homesick?"

"Partly," said the Wisconsin man, "and partly for the accommodation of visitors from back home. I guess you are right about every last one of us exiles clinging to a home map for a while. I have been into the offices of recent arrivals from half the states in the Union, and every place I saw a state map. I suppose those people got them for the same reason I did. Back in Milwaukee I never thought of owning a map of Wisconsin, but now that I am in the city, I find it very good to trace familiar railroad routes and locate well-known towns. Then, a lot of Wisconsin people here on a visit drop in, and as they expect to be back home as soon as possible, as a sentimental advantage to them to find a Wisconsin map handy."

Financiering.
A small boy was given a penny to spend. Now, although his stomach craved a doughnut, he also wished a banana he had seen on a fruit stand at the corner. He preferred, of the two, the fruit.

"How much is them bananas?" he asked.
"Six for five cents, or a penny apiece."

"Six for five? Well," the youngster said wistfully, "gimme six."

The fruiterer counted out half a dozen and handed them over.
"A penny apiece?" questioned the boy, taking them.

The man nodded. So the boy counted out five bananas and gave them back. "There's your five cents' worth," he said. "I don't want 'em."

Before the merchant quite saw the value of the lad's act, the boy was on his way to the candy store, a banana in one hand and his cent in the other.—Judge.

ANGELL AVOIDED THE TRAP

Tells of His Duel of Wits With a Spy of the Sultan of Turkey at Constantinople.

In the diplomatic service, a man must always keep his wits keen and ready for use. A case in point is supplied by James Russell Angell, in his "Reminiscences." In this anecdote of his sojourn in Constantinople, as minister to the United States, he tells of the epics of the sultan were everywhere. A Turk told me that the spy business was the most prosperous of all. I was assured that spies were sitting at the dinner tables of the principal hotels, to overhear the conversation of the guests. With one against whose visits I had been warned, I had an amusing interview.

He was a handsome, dignified Arab, who had been in England long enough to talk English fairly well. He introduced himself to me by saying he had been mayor of Jerusalem, and was now trying to procure from the government a concession for the construction of a system of waterworks for that city.

He regretted—so he informed me—to find that the government was so corrupt that he had no hope of securing the concessions except by bribing a whole row of officials. It refreshed him to hear from the representatives of corrupt and tyrannical government and pay his respects to the representative of a pure and honest democracy.

Supporting his object to be to draw from me some remark derogatory to the Sultan, which he could report to my disadvantage, I remarked that a monarchy presided over by a just sovereign was a very edifying spectacle, and that even in republics it must be admitted that corrupt men were sometimes found in office.

He seemed surprised, and proceeded to indulge in republican government. I continued my commendations of enlightened monarchies.

The conversation ran on in this way for half an hour, when he bade me adieu—but, as I flattered myself without any game for his bag—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

STRANGE COUNTRY IS OMAN

Something About the Sultante at the Southeast End of the Arabian Peninsula.

One of the least known countries of the Arabian peninsula is the sultante of Oman, which occupies the southern extremity. The country is largely unexplored, and has not been exactly determined, as the western, or desert, border has never been fixed. The population, which ranges from 250,000 to 500,000 is distributed mostly along the seacoast, and a few interior valleys that can be irrigated. There are no rivers, and the annual rainfall is not more than five inches. We are the only source of water. The Tropic of Cancer crosses the sultante, and while the winters are pleasant the summers are long and extremely hot. Arabic is the language generally spoken, though in the ports many persons speak Persian, Baluchi and Hindustani, and every native merchant can conduct his business correspondence in either English or French. The sultan or any of his walls, or governors, decides a case which may be brought before them without reference to any other case or to any law, except local customs and such precepts of the Koran as may be deemed applicable. Commercial law is unknown. Wages, formerly extremely low, have been increasing steadily, a condition said to be due not to any increase in the demand for labor, but to a deficiency in the supply caused by the dying out of the tribes, or, no, population since the importation of slave cargoes ceased. The prevailing daily wages, United States currency, in Zebir, are: Carpenters, 45c; house servants, 17c; cooks, 35c; masons, 24c; coolies, 24c; messengers, 20c, and women daily packers, 37c. Goats, sheep and burros, of poor and stunted types, owing to scanty forage, are raised; but the dromedaries which the tribes of the western border grow are said to be the best bred in the world. Horses are few, there being probably less than 500 in the whole country.

Paid Good Price for His Cutlet.
The Brazilian nabob, Baron Fereau, was as miserly in trifles as he was extravagant in other directions. It was one of his peculiarities never to lose servants, and the waiter of the various hotels at which he sojourned were, for that reason, not partial to him. One morning, while staying at the magnificent Hotel de Ville, in Rio de Janeiro, he came down to breakfast and ordered a cutlet. After he had eaten it he ordered a second, "Baron," said the head waiter, maliciously, "it's a custom with us never to serve the same course twice at a meal."

"Is that so?" said Fereau, and rising from his seat he left the room. In ten minutes he came back into the dining room. "Walter," said he, "I have just bought this hotel and am master here now. As you will not be able to get accustomed to my plan of serving guests according to their wishes, you are dismissed at once." Thereupon he took up his napkin again and called to another waiter: "Now, bring me another cutlet!"

Drawing a Fine Distinction.
Floorwalker—They're reduced your salary, have they?
Elevator Boy—Nope; they've cut my wages.

Avoid Parading Troubles.
"Expectin' a man to find satisfaction in hearin' about yoh troubles," said Uncle Eben, "gives him credit for havin' a purty pore disposition."
